

Senseg Terms of Use

Last modified: Monday February 14, 2022

Senseg is a new digital payments service currently testing an experimental mobile application.

Senseg will do its best to act responsibly toward users and comply with applicable law.

However, Senseg does not make any guarantees, including functionality of its services, protection against loss of money while using the services, access to accounts, or confidentiality of user data.

Senseg reserves the right to withhold service from any user at any time, for any reason, as well as to modify these terms at any time.

Users acknowledge and explicitly agree, in signing up and using Senseg while these terms are in effect, to abide by these terms and thereby indemnify and hold harmless Senseg against all claims and liability.

Users who do not accept these terms should not sign up for nor use Senseg services.
